INTIMATION.

A. S. WATSON & CO., LIMITED.

Established A.D. 1841.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

ALL these are selected by our London House, bought direct at first hand, imported in wood and bottled by ourselves, thus saving all intermediate profits, and enabling us to supply the best growths at MODERATE PRICES.

PRICE LISTS, with Full Details, to be had on Application.

PORT after removal should be rested a month before use. When required for drinking at once it should be ordered to be decanted at the Dispensary before being sent out.

SHERRY.—Excellent Dinner and After Dinner Wines of very superior Vintages. All are true Xeres Wines.

CLARET.—Our Clarets, including the lowest priced, are guaranteed to be the genuine product of the juice of the grape and are not "artificially" made from raisins and currants, as is generally the case with Cheap Wines.

BRANDY.—All our Brandy is guaranteed to be pure Cognac, the different in price being merely a question of age and vintage.

WHISKY.—All our Whisky is of excellent quality and of greater age than most brands in the market. The SCOTCH WHISKY marked "E" is universally popular, and is pronounced by the best local connoisseurs to be superior to any other brand in the Hongkong market.

We only guarantee our Wines and Spirits to be genuine when bought direct from us in the Colony or from our authorised Agents at the Coast Ports.

HONGKONG, MARCH 4TH, 1895.

SINGAPORE is about to present a petition to the House of Commons with reference to its grievance in respect of the military contribution. The committee of the local branch of the Straits Settlements Association was to meet on the 22nd ult. for the purpose of considering the draft of the petition and it may be assumed that the movement will be duly carried through. We have heard nothing more of the petition sent from Hongkong with reference to the constitution of the Legislative Council, and hardly expect to do so, but the petition from Singapore will probably be more fortunate in commanding attention for several reasons. In the first place, the Hongkong petition, if the truth must be confessed, was somewhat too vague and general in its character to excite very lively attention at home, whereas the Singapore petition deals with a concrete grievance, the importance of which, from a colonial point of view, has been emphasised by the resignation of several of the Singapore members of Council and the whole of the Justices of the Peace; and in the second place, the London branch of the Straits Association is a strong body with sufficient influence in Parliament to see that the petition receives attention, whereas the Hongkong petition had no such backing. We expect in course of time, therefore, to hear not only that the Singapore petition has been in due course presented to the House, but that a debate has been formally raised on it. We are not equally sanguine as to the result of the debate. It cannot be made a party question, for the Liberals and Conservatives are in the same boat on this matter. The Colonial party in the House also recognise the justice of the colonies sharing in the cost of the defence of the empire and a mere question of account is not likely to excite much enthusiasm. The probability is, therefore, that the members specially interested in the Straits will be allowed to have their say, but in a small house. The Government, however, in order to relieve itself in some measure of responsibility in connection with a rather irritating question, may consent to, or itself propose, the appointment of a commission to inquire into the matter not only as regards the Straits in particular but the colonies in general. That is in itself a thing to be desired, for it would naturally lead to the establishment of some well defined principle upon which the contributions should be levied, and the local irritation might thereby be in some measure removed. But whether there would be any actual pecuniary relief may be doubted. The members of the Commission could not be expected to be imbued with any great desire to shift the burden of taxation from the ratepayers of Singapore on to the shoulders of the already heavily burdened British taxpayer. It would no doubt be argued that the native communities who enjoy the protection of the British flag should pay their fair share towards the cost of Imperial defence, and when the question of what is a fair share is gone into the chances, we fear, are rather in favour of the commission taking the view that has been taken by successive Liberal and Conservative Administrations as to the actual amount paid by Singapore not being in excess. The colony may find it less irritating to pay a certain sum in accordance with some principle laid down by the Commission instead of, at the behest of the Downing Street authorities, but if the amount remains the same the effect on the colonial exchequer will be nil. It would, however, be a satisfaction to know that all the Crown colonies were treated on the same basis and we may assume that the commission would recognise the injustice of allowing certain colonies to escape altogether while levying large sums on others.

The Austrian Lloyd's steamer Vindobona left Kobe for this port via Moji on the 1st inst.

The Douglas Steamship Co., Limited, has declared an interim dividend for the half-year of five per cent.

The Glen Line steamer Glengarry, from London and Straits, left Singapore for this port on Friday, the 1st inst.

H.M.S. Alacrity, with Admiral Fremantle on board, arrived at Shanghai on the 25th February from Chefoo and Weihaiwei.

The sale of land at the Peak by Mr. J. M. Armstrong, which was advertised for Saturday last, has been postponed until Saturday next.

Captain Mackenzie, the new Deputy Superintendent of Police and Adjutant to the Volunteers, arrived at Shanghai by the Empress of Japan on the 24th February.

Mr. Duncan H. Mackintosh, of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, who was married the other day to Miss Louisa Mary Kekewich, daughter of Mr. Justice Kekewich, is coming out from home to succeed Mr. McC. Browne as agent at Bangkok.

Captain Ziloff, of the Russian man-of-war Razboiniek, died of kidney disease at the Shanghai General Hospital on Sunday, the 24th February. The funeral took place on the 26th, when in addition to detachments from the men-of-war in port, the Volunteers were present.

The P. & O. steamer Ceylon, Captain Baker, which arrived at Singapore on the 21st February from Hongkong, is to convey the 26th Company, Southern Division, R.A. to Malta to replace the 25th Company, which arrived at Singapore on the 13th February in the P. & O. steamer Malacca.

A Peking telegram of the 25th February to the N. C. Daily News says:—The Viceroy, Li Hung-chang, has had audience twice with his Majesty in the Grand Council Chamber since arriving at the capital and interviews with the Empress-Dowager of an unceremonious nature, in which the Emperor also took part. Conversation was strictly private, all eunuchs and ladies-in-waiting upon her Majesty being ordered to keep out of hearing. The outcome of these interviews, however, will be made apparent within a few days.

The following returns of the average amount of Bank notes in circulation and of specie in reserve in Hongkong during the month ended 28th February, 1895, as certified by the Managers of the respective Banks, are published:—

Banks.	Average Amount.	Specie in Reserve.
Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China	1,463,101	800,000
Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation	5,435,969	2,500,000
	36,899,070	$3,300,000

The Clear Water Dairy Farm, Limited (Singapore) with a capital of $25,000, the prospectus of which was published a few weeks ago, has been or will be floated. All the capital asked for from the public has been fully subscribed. The capital is fixed at $25,000, of which, however, $5,000 is unissued. The purchase price of the concern is $16,000, of which one half ($8,000) is taken in shares in the company. The expenses of the formation being borne by the vendors, there remain $4,000 as a working capital. The directorate is formed of Mr. Shelford, Dr. Tripp, and Mr. C. E. Crane.

While the carpenter of the St. David, now at Shanghai, was recently examining the ship's copper after she had discharged her cargo he came across a peculiar object embedded in the ship's side. He called the attention of the captain to this and an examination was made. To effect this the object had to be cut out of the wood and it was then found to be part of a sword fish's sword, which had not only gone clean through three to four inches of pitch pine planking, but had also penetrated one of the white oak timbers some inches, where it had come in contact with a bolt, the length of the sword being some eleven to twelve inches. The sword is now in the hands of the captain of the ship.

A Tamsui telegram to the N. C. Daily News of the 26th February says:—The high authorities here evidently expect the island to be attacked by the Japanese in the near future, and have been busy making efficient preparations for receiving the enemy ever since the news of the sighting of a Japanese squadron in the Formosa Channel. Although the garrisons at Kelung and Hsiwei, with the large covering force in the neighbouring hills, seem to be quite sufficient to give a good account of themselves if called to do so, Governor Tang has decided to reinforce the troops there with several more regiments. An inspection was made the other day to select the men that are to be sent to Kelung.

A correspondent writes to the N. C. Daily News:—The early advent of the long-delayed British dollar is to be expected. A question will then arise in regard to the manner of redemption of existing contracts, of very considerable importance to the mercantile communities of the Straits Settlements and Hongkong and of the open ports of China. In the British colonies it is probable the new dollar will be made a legal tender for all existing obligations expressed in "Straits or Hongkong currency;" but even then a doubt must arise in regard to considerations conditioned in "Mexican dollars." In the ports in China, where the dollar can only circulate on sufferance, the situation is one of some gravity; particularly so if Mexican dollars should reach a high premium. This question raised seems worthy of consideration; its satisfactory solution will be exceedingly acceptable to many.

Respecting the proposed insurance of the Kiungnan Arsenal, Mr. J. A. Ballard writes to the North-China Daily News:—As the paragraph on the above subject which appears in this morning's issue of your paper does not quite correctly represent the facts of the case, I shall feel obliged by your giving publicity to the following statement of what actually occurred. Towards the end of December, at the request of the Shanghai Taotai, I telegraphed to London to enquire upon what terms insurance to the extent of £2,000,000 could be effected upon the buildings and contents of the Kiungnan Arsenal:—(a.) To cover all risks, including war risk, and (b.) to cover the fire risk only. My correspondents telegraphed me in due course definite quotations for different periods under both headings, and these were submitted to the Taotai accordingly. My proposals were laid by the Taotai before the Viceroy Chang Chih-tung at Nanking and remained for some time under the consideration of the provincial authorities there. In the meantime, however, the political situation underwent a change; and the publication of the instructions regarding the protection of the Yangtsze and its approaches forwarded by the British Government to Admiral Fremantle served to allay the apprehensions of the Chinese. The Viceroy consequently telegraphed the Taotai that he considered the proposed insurance unnecessary. The statement that underwriters would not even quote a rate for the risk is thus incorrect; and there is no doubt that insurance could have been effected in London, if desired, on favourable terms.

The first batch of steamers for Tientsin was to leave Shanghai yesterday.

It is stated that several Japanese killed in the early torpedo attacks on Weihaiwei were given suitable burial by order of the late Admiral Ting.

The Sanitary Board holds a special meeting at 4.15 p.m. to-day for the purpose of considering the draft by-laws under section 13 of Ordinance 15 of 1894.

The appointment of Mr. A. M. Thomson to be Acting Colonial Treasurer and Collector of Stamp Revenue during the absence of the Hon. N. G. Mitchell-Innes is gazetted. Mr. J. G. T. Buckle has been appointed Acting Assistant Colonial Secretary.

A telegram to the Mercury dated Yokohama, 23rd February, states that the Supplementary Budget for extra war expenses, the loan of three million yen to the Korean Government, and the law regarding the raising of the national loan had been unanimously passed by the House.

The Secretary of State has directed that exchange compensation be paid to the Chief Justice of Singapore, Mr. Cox, and to Mr. J. U. Anthonisz, Second Magistrate, Police Court, Singapore. The Secretary of State declines to enter into the question of the domicile of officials of rank.

On Saturday Mr. H. J. Holmes, solicitor, appeared at the Police Court in answer to a summons charging him with having an unmuzzled ferocious dog in his possession. The animal bit a ship's carpenter in the leg and Commander Hastings said the dog had lost his character. Mr. Holmes promised to have the dog muzzled in future.

The Siam Observer of the 19th February says:—We are glad to learn that His Majesty the King is quite well again. For the first time since the Crown Prince's death His Majesty gave private audiences to the princes, nobles, and officials on Thursday last in the Maha Chakkri Audience Hall. The audiences were continued on Friday and Saturday nights.

A Peking telegram to the Mercury dated 25th February, states:—At a meeting of the Grand Council held on the 24th it was agreed that all the High Officials from the first to the third rank should vote, sending their replies by telegram, whether they agreed to a prolonged war or to have peace. All have expressed their opinion that the war is unjust, but that they are anxious for peace; some are anxious for peace if Japan's terms are bearable.

On Saturday Chief Inspector Mathieson was the recipient of three very handsome presents from the Chinese sergeant interpreters at the Central Station. Mr. Mathieson goes away on leave to-morrow, and as a mark of respect the interpreters gave him an exceedingly beautiful silk scroll on which was inscribed "To John Mathieson, Esq., Chief Inspector of the Hongkong Police Force. Will ever be grateful. 4th March, 1895. Presented by three sergeant interpreters belonging to the Force." Mr. Mathieson also received a sandalwood junk and a sandalwood pagoda, both very fine specimens of carving.

An incident which might almost belong to the realm of anecdote is reported from the police courts, says the Bangkok Times. On Monday morning constable No. 211 (Nai Chuen), in conformity with the local regulation for walking-sticks, arrested Phya Thamasaranate, Chief Judge of the Appeal Court, only discovering his identity on arrival at the police station. There, however, Phra Anan, the Chief Superintendent of Police, confiscated the offending but necessary staff of the learned judge, pending the payment of the usual four tical fine. In this instance, at least, King Chulalongkorn may, apart from his appreciation of the walking-stick ordinance, but after the manner of Henry IV., thank Providence for having given him both a police superintendent who knows how to administer the laws and a judge who respects their authority.

The N. C. Daily News says:—The government of this province is apparently aware that a commotion of some kind on the part of secret society men, such as the Kolao Hui, the Pehlien Chiao and others, is on the tapis, for effective preparations are being made to meet all emergencies. The Provincial Commander-in-Chief of this province, whose headquarters are at Sanchiang, has recently ordered the whole gunboat flotilla of Lower Kiangan, numbering some 360 boats (a mining each twenty men and carrying four muzzle-loading four-pounders apiece), to assemble at various points in the inland rivers and creeks, so as to be ready to afford each other assistance when wanted. Volunteer organisations are also being pushed on with all vigour far inland, where the idea of a foreign invasion would be an absurdity, and the only logical reason for such steps is that a local rising is expected amongst the secret societies which the authorities are determined to suppress, if possible.

Some few days ago we (N. C. Daily News) announced that the Great Northern Telegraph steamer Store Nordiske had met with very severe weather when on the way to Possiette Bay on the 1st and 2nd February, and we have now received further particulars of this. The steamer was only about fifty miles from her destination when she encountered a strong northerly gale of typhoon force, accompanied by driving snow that prevented anything being seen, and the cold was intense at the time, the thermometer indicating forty degrees of frost. Every sea that broke on board formed ice at once, and so thickly covered was the deck of the vessel that it gave her a dangerous list to port. Everything on deck was a mass of ice, and of course the steering gear was useless. In this helpless condition the steamer fell into the trough of the sea, and was in danger of capsizing, and it was only by almost superhuman exertions that she could be kept going. Fortunately for all on board the strong gale caused the steamer to drift clear of the land, on which at one time it was considered she was in danger of running, as she had to be kept going, though it was not possible to steer her. When the gale moderated all hands were employed to clear the vessel from ice, it being estimated that there were 150 tons weight on board, and this arduous work occupied the crew two entire days. Photographs were taken of the Store Nordiske when the gale abated which give an excellent view of the extraordinary circumstances under which she was situated, showing that masts, rigging, and everything on deck were a mass of ice. Some of the crew suffered from frost-bite, which is not to be wondered at.

A Peking correspondent of the Singapore Free Press writes:—I have been spending much of my time lately in interminable arguments with one of my teachers on the subject of what is true politeness. T— had jokingly informed him that I was going to call at his house on New Year's day and he came and implored me by all that was holy (Confucius, etc.) to have mercy on him and not do so. I naturally bridled up at this insult he was conferring on me, first, as a British subject, secondly as an expectant Taotai, by not considering me worthy of being received at his house, at a wretched "hsin tzu li" living on $15 per month, which we were kind enough to give him out of charity (he ought to have been superannuated long ago). He gave reasons innumerable, but I quote the most characteristic.—(1) I do might be taken for a Christian. It would be the greatest compliment ever paid him. (2) His house would be taken for one of ill-fame, for Europeans only visited such. I said I should have thought his character might have been able to stand an imputation of the kind. (3) I would destroy the great object of his life for the last twenty years, i.e., to impress upon his neighbours that, though employed by foreigners, he was on the worst of terms with them, and he was only employed or rather remained at the Legation because they couldn't do without him. My presence, he said, would contradict his previous assurances. (4) He would be despised for ever after by all his friends; and so on. It was only when he burst into tears, however, that I consented to spare him. He afterwards brought a long document, on which he had drawn up a list of quotations from Mencius and Confucius, to prove he was right in not allowing me to call on him, the ones he laid most stress on being "that a pupil should do what his master tells him," and "that one must not do what one ought not to do." I gave him up after this. By the way, my teacher let slip in the midst of his argument that in ordinary conversation amongst themselves Chinamen, whether officials or otherwise, always spoke of us as "foreign devils." Can you understand now why our sympathy for them is not as great as it might be?

The Spanish cruiser Reina Cristina arrived here on Saturday from Manila.

The Volunteer Ball, which was postponed from Friday last, is now fixed for the 15th inst.

The Russian man-of-war Vsadnik and the torpedo cruiser Gaydamack arrived here on Saturday from Saigon.

The P. & O. steamer Ganges, with the English mail, left Singapore at noon yesterday and is expected here about noon on Friday next, the 8th inst.

From the Comercio we learn that the Compania Maritima are about to commence a service between Manila and Japan, the steamer Nitra, Sva. de Loreto being employed on the line.

The half yearly general meeting of the Pakuan Railway Company was held at Bangkok on the 14th February, at which a dividend of 3½ per cent. was declared, making the profits of the year over 5½ per cent.

At 2.30 yesterday morning a Chinaman died suddenly in Queen's Road. He had been ailing for some time past, and he had just been to see a doctor, when he sat down in the gutter and expired almost immediately.

Another attack by pirates on Europeans is reported from Tonkin. Two officers of the Post and Telegraph Department who were engaged in establishing a line of telegraph between Haiphong and Chonai were the victims. One of them was killed and the other was taken prisoner. Details of the affair had not been received at the date of the latest papers to hand.

A Tsinanfu telegram of the 24th February to the N. C. Daily News says:—The military authorities here have captured a man supposed to be connected with a band of Japanese emissaries, who are believed to have caused the recent disastrous explosion at the Chik'on forts. The loss of life is estimated at a little over 200, but the destruction of the arms and ammunition stored up in those forts is said to amount to a very large sum.

Many of the natives at Shanghai, says the N. C. Daily News, including quite a number of the official classes, appear to give credit to a rumour now in circulation at this port that Japan will demand from China as conditions for peace, first, an indemnity of six hundred million dollars; secondly, certain strongholds, such as Port Arthur, to be ceded in perpetuity to Japan; and, thirdly, the island of Formosa as a guarantee of China's pledges. The above are the three principal conditions; there are said to be, however, twenty other minor conditions.

This afternoon at the Happy Valley the Hongkong Football Club will hold an Inter-Club association match. Teams will be captained by G. W. Millward and P. G. Anderson, R.K.R. Mr. Millwar'a team—W. FIRES IN QUEEN'S ROAD.

FOUR HOUSES GUTTED.

On Saturday evening, at 6.30, a fire broke out in a tea shop at 228, Queen's Road West, occupied by Nam Hoi. The outbreak was due to the falling of a kerosine lamp which was hanging over the stairs of the ground floor. The Fire Brigade attended as speedily as possible, but the flames obtained a firm hold of the building and spread very rapidly. All the available hose was brought into play, but the efforts of the firemen could not prevent the premises on each side—Nos. 228 and 230—becoming ablaze, and in a very short time the three houses were completely gutted. Nam Hoi occupies the first floor of the three houses, and the ground floor of 226 is a samshu shop and a school, and that of 230 is occupied by a dealer in sweetmeats. The total damage is estimated at $10,000. No. 228 is insured with Messrs. Shelthess and Co. in the Hanseatic Insurance Co. for $4,000 and the two others houses are insured for $2,000 each by Messrs. Siemssen & Co.

Another fire broke out in Li Sing Street, Queen's Road West, at 7.15 last night. The premises are used by a rattan dealer, and when the outbreak occurred there was no one on the premises. The Fire Brigade worked for upwards of an hour and a half before they mastered the flames. The place was burnt out, and it is not yet known whether the amount of the insurance—$2,000—covers the damage, or what the origin of the fire was.

THE HONGKONG BRICK AND CEMENT CO., LIMITED.

The second annual meeting of the shareholders of the Hongkong Brick and Cement Co., Limited, was held on Saturday, at noon, at the Company's office, 9, Praya Central, Mr. J. D. Humphreys, Chairman of the Company, was unable to attend, and the chair was taken by Mr. David Gillies. There were also present the Hon. C. P. Chater, Messrs. J. B. Coughtrie (Directors), W. A. Duff (Secretary), W. H. Potts, George Fenwick, W. H. Ray, A. G. Stokes, Paul Jordan, Leung Tung Po, and J. Watts (Manager).

The CHAIRMAN said—I am extremely sorry that I have been called upon to take the chair, owing to the illness of Mr. Humphreys, so that if there are any points of interest that I may omit in the few remarks I have to make to you I have to crave your indulgence and plead the very short notice I have had. The report and statement of accounts for last year's working having been in your hands for some time, with your permission we will consider them as having been read. From the statement of accounts you will observe that your Directors are again unable to recommend the payment of a dividend, although at our last annual meeting the business of the Company looked so flourishing that we fully anticipated a handsome return to shareholders on the year's working, and so far we are glad to say that the returns have been satisfactory; but unfortunately considerable damage was done to our property by the severe typhoons in the months of September and October last. The amount at debit of typhoon damage, viz., $1,100, does not nearly represent our loss, as this covers the damage to kilns and chimneys only, whereas in addition to this we lost a large quantity of green goods in the kilns, some coal washed away, matsheds destroyed, factory roof carried away, considerable part of the wharf washed away, and owing to the injury to our kilns and chimneys the works were non-productive for about two months. However, the disastrous effects of the typhoons were made good as soon as possible and the cost of these repairs has been debited to working account. The business of the Company is, we are glad to say, rapidly improving, and our sales during the period under review exceed those of the former year by about 40 per cent. and for the opening months of our present financial year we have to report a further marked improvement in the many large orders coming to hand, so that the works will now be fully employed on contract work for some months. Two new kilns of large capacity have just been completed and will be dried and utilized during the current month. From them we expect a very favourable result and an increase on our output of over 30 per cent; so that notwithstanding the many misfortunes and the great difficulties the Company have had to contend with we may now look to the future with great confidence, as we can always find a ready market for our goods at remunerative rates. Before proceeding to the adoption of the report and accounts I shall be very glad to answer any questions that shareholders may wish to put.

Mr. FENWICK—Is there plenty of clay, Mr. Chairman, to keep the place going for many years to come?

The CHAIRMAN—I believe there is sufficient clay to keep the works going for twenty years—probably much longer, as the clay extends underneath the upper surface for about half a mile beyond the Company's property.

The CHAIRMAN—As there are no further questions, I beg to propose the adoption of the report and accounts.

Mr. FENWICK—I beg to second that.

Carried.

Mr. RAY—I beg to propose that the retiring directors, Messrs. J. D. Humphreys and J. B. Coughtrie, be re-elected.

Mr. STOKES—I second that.

Carried.

Mr. JORDAN—I beg to propose the re-election of Messrs. A. O'D. Gourdin and T. I. Rose as auditors.

Mr. STOKES seconded.

Carried.

The CHAIRMAN—That is all the business, gentlemen. I thank you for your attendance.

CRICKET.

THE CLUB v. THE NAVY.

This, the return match between the Club and the Navy, was decided upon the Cricket Ground on Saturday last and after a game interesting in itself and rendered additionally interesting by the fact that several of the players were new to the colony, so far as cricket is concerned, resulted in a victory for the Club by a majority of 63 runs. At one time it appeared as if the issue might be otherwise, or at any rate the margin in the club's favour would be much narrower, the telegraph board showing 3 naval wickets down for 90 runs, with two batsmen apparently will set. At this period, however, Darby "imagined a mischievous device," and assuming that air of devilish cunning for which he is now famous, sent down a "ticer" to Garde, who jumped out a bit, missed it, and was bowled. From this stage of the game the resistance of the batting side was of a rather feeble description, Smyth, who was in a very long time for 14 runs, being the only batsman who played with any confidence; and the whole side was eventually disposed of for 122 runs. It is rather curious to note that out of the 307 runs put together in the two innings, 197 were compiled by four batsmen, leaving 110 runs for the remaining sixteen wickets, or a trifle under 7 runs a piece. Garde played an excellent innings for the Navy, hitting with a little more freedom than is usual with him, and giving, so far as we saw, no chance. Maitland, too, was quite in his old form for the Club, and with the assistance of a little bit of the family "jess" knocked up the substantial contribution of 85 not out—a score which was invaluable to his side. Upon the whole the batting may be looked upon as a little disappointing, as rather more than five hours' cricket only produced a total of over 350 runs—about seventy runs an hour—which is a very poor record upon a fast and perfectly true wicket and upon the Hongkong ground with its narrow boundaries. Shelford and Blount, each of who n had a good analysis, may take the credit for this so far as the Navy goes; whilst Watson, Leach, and Darby were chiefly responsible on the side of the Club. Darby bowled 11 maidens out of 15 overs and took 3 wickets for 6 runs—a very noticeable performance.

This is the second victory of the Club over the Navy this season, but it is only fair to recognise that in the previous encounter the Navy was not very strongly represented, whilst on the present occasion some of the players who should have proved most dangerous are much out of practice after a long sojourn up north, and in fact hardly thawed. By the courtesy of Captain McQuhae and the officers of H.M.S. Centurion the band of the flagship played on the ground during the afternoon.

RAUB.

The mining manager's report for the four weeks ending 9th February, 1895, runs as follows:—

Raub Hole No. 1 Level.—The only work going on in this level is working the small cross leaders, having been in your hands for some time, with your permission we will consider them as having been read. From the statement of accounts you will observe that your Directors are again unable to recommend the payment of a dividend, although at our last annual meeting the business of the Company looked so flourishing that we fully anticipated a handsome return to shareholders on the year's working, and so far we are glad to say that the returns have been satisfactory; but unfortunately considerable damage was done to our property by the severe typhoons in the months of September and October last. Mr. JORDAN—I beg to propose the re-election of Messrs. A. O'D. Gourdin and T. I. Rose as auditors.

Mr. STOKES seconded.

The CHAIRMAN—That is all the business, gentlemen. I thank you for your attendance.

Bukit Koman.—The only work being carried on here is stoping over the back of the main level at 140 feet and in the leader formation in the shaft. There is no change to report in the prospects of either place; about half of the last crushing came from these stopes. Since the fine weather has set in, the water in the mine has eased off a great deal, which makes the workings better.

Western Lode.—There is no change in the prospects of these workings. Stoping is being carried on both north and south from the north winze; the lode if anything is a little smaller on the south stopes. Gold can be seen in breaking the ore in all the stopes and a fair amount of crushing stuff has been sent to the battery from here.

Battery.—A rough clean-up of the battery took place to-day; 850 tons yielded 1,203 ounces amalgam. About half of the ore crushed came from Bukit Koman, three-tenths from Raub Hole, and two-tenths from the western lode. One week was lost owing to the Chinese New Year holidays.

Railway.—The survey of this is completed from the western lode shaft as far as Bukit Malacca, with all the necessary plans, sections, and estimates to proceed with the work. The total length with sidings is 3 miles and 12 chains. The total cost, including rolling stock, I estimate at $3,792. The line is longer than I originally intended to carry it in the first instance; but by carrying it to Bukit Malacca it will enable me to at once open up several mines equally as good as Bukit Koman, and raise sufficient ore to keep double our present number of stamps employed.

HOW WEIHAIWEI CAPITULATED.

From a long account in the Shanghai Mercury of the proceedings at Weihaiwei we extract the following:—

Admiral Ting received a dispatch from Chefoo that his expected reinforcements had not arrived, but were retreating. It was then, seeing his ships disappear one after the other and Itau forts silenced, that he began to think of capitulation. It was impossible for the Chinese men-of-war to coal and they ran short of supplies. They could not approach the coaling wharf to coal owing to the fire of the forts, for they would have undoubtedly been sunk. They tried to coal every evening, but the torpedo boats of the enemy kept them at their posts. On the 8th of February a consultation of Chinese and European officers was held. The result was that it was decided to send a letter to the Japanese Admiral offering to capitulate. Admiral Ting agreed to sign the letter. On the 12th of February the Kuangying, commanded by Captain Chang, left the harbour of Weihaiwei bearing an offer of surrender signed by Admiral Ting, the purport of which was that, having fought resolutely and had his ships destroyed and his men decimated, he proposed to cease fighting, and now desired only to save the lives of his men. He would, therefore, hand over all the ships, forts, and weapons of war, provided the Japanese undertook to spare the lives of his officers, men, and others, foreigners included, and to allow them all to return to their native places. If this condition were accepted, he desired that the Commander-in-Chief of the British Navy should to be made guarantee. This elicited the following reply:—February 12th, 1895: Sir, I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter and to inform you that I accept the proposals which you have made to me. Accordingly I shall take possession to-morrow of all your ships (forty) and other materials of war which are left in your hands. As to the hour and other conditions I shall be glad to make arrangements with you to-morrow at the time when I shall receive a decisive answer to this my present letter. When the above mentioned materials of war have been delivered up to me I shall then be willing to make one of my ships conduct all the persons mentioned in your letter, including yourself, to a place convenient for both parties in perfect security. But were I to state to you my personal views and feelings I would beckon you as I had done in my country the termination of the present war, not only for your own safety, but also for the future interest of your country. I consider it far more preferable that you should render yourself to my country, where you are sure to be treated with care and attention. However, if it is your intention to rejoin your country, I leave it entirely to your choice. As to your desire to make the Admiral Commanding in Chief of the British Squadron as a guarantee on your behalf I consider it unnecessary that I should feel loth to confide the prices to my friends at home, for they would certainly disbelieve them. I am paid in gold; and, for the first time in my life, my bank balance keeps on accumulating at a rate that is a perpetual and delightful astonishment. I am going to begin to buy Consols.

THE ARMENIAN MASSACRE.

A NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENT INVESTIGATES IT.

STATE OF MORALS ALONG THE KURDISH FRONTIER.

LONDON, 3rd February.

A letter has been received here from the special correspondent of the Associated Press who was sent to Armenia to investigate the reported Armenian atrocities and who is still in Armenia. For reasons that will be readily understood the name of this correspondent is withheld, but he is a newspaper man well known in America, and he was instructed to make an impartial investigation of the stories told of Turkish cruelties.

The correspondent spent a week or more in Constantinople before starting for Armenia, during which time he investigated the reports current there, and then continued his journey. His first letter has just reached here, after having been posted by a trusted messenger at Tiflis, Russia. It contains the first authentic news from Armenia direct, and says:—

"Whatever secrets may lie under the snow of the Armenian mountains, it seems beyond dispute, from what I have heard from many lips, that the published stories of ferocious butchery and red horror in the Sassoun villages have at least a reasonable foundation of truth, and that any change authorized by further investigation will deal more with numbers than with the degree of horror."

But from what the correspondent says in the latter part of his letter, there are two sides to the Armenian story:—"But no matter what light we throw upon the spasmodic wickedness of the Turk, or upon the ingenious devilitry of the revolutionary conspirators, we find that it is still the innocent who suffer most. The Turks declare that the Armenians have inflicted shocking outrages upon Turkish men and women, and from what is already known of conspiracy methods, it is quite likely that the assertion is true. For instance, it is reported that as a means of inciting the Turks to commit outrages that will bring down upon them the wrath of the civilized world, Armenians have thrust gun cartridges into the bodies of living Turkish men and women and have exploded them, and that in the case of one man a hole was made just below the bones of the chest from the insertion of a quantity of gunpowder, which was then ignited as a sort of a bomb. These facts are known at the embassies at Constantinople, and probably they have been transmitted in reports to the various governments."

The correspondent also remarks: "The impartial truth of the Sassoun massacre will probably never be known, for the dead tell no tales. A careful sifting of all the facts obtainable from trustworthy sources in Constantinople, Sassoun, Kersaund, Trebizonde, and Bitlis indicates that this is what happened:—

"Certain Armenian peasants, to the number of several thousand, were tending their herds and flocks in their summer pastures in the Sassoun mountains along the borders of Kurdistan. They were living in mere temporary villages which they inhabited only during the summer pasture season, their winter homes being far down the valleys. Kurds were under contract to defend them against the raids of cattle stealers and Kurdish bandits. A short time before the villagers were ready to return to their homes with their fattened cattle, a band of Kurdish bandits, industriously searching for a winter's supply of provisions, raided their stock. The villagers and their Kurdish protectors made a vigorous defence. That would have ended it, but before the fighting was over the Turkish government came into the affair, and then the real trouble began. Some of them telegraphed that a conspiracy was in progress among the Armenians in the mountain villages, and the order came straight from the palaces: 'Punish the villagers to the utmost extremity.'

"The palace had not paused to inquire into the truth of the rumour and the officers entrusted with the execution of the order did not investigate the facts when the troops arrived on the ground. The Kurdish bandits joined forces with the Turkish regulars and even the Kurds who had been defending the Armenians turned traitors and swelled the numbers of the government troops. The poor Armenian peasants were then left to the mercy of a force of Turkish regulars and two bands of Kurds. The massacre began. For Armenians it was a fight without hope, but still they fought as only men can to defend their wives and children from outrage and death. They took refuge in their houses and barricaded themselves in, but the Kurdish cannon made short work of these, and when the men in terror ran from their hiding places they were slain without mercy—man, woman and child. The outrage of Armenian women and children by the Turks in that part of the country is so common a thing, even at times of absolute quiet, that there can be no doubt that this massacre was attended with outrage and atrocity too horrible to think of. The Armenians in Athens and Constantinople assert that 42 villages were destroyed and nearly 10,000 persons massacred, but more impartial and equally informed persons put the number at 25 villages and from 1,000 to 3,000 persons killed. The exact number will never be known.

"Not only should the Sassoun massacre be probed to the bottom, but all the attending circumstances should be carefully considered. For one thing the state of morals in Armenia, and especially along the Kurdish frontier, should receive the closest scrutiny. The facts that are now and then told as merest matters of course are most appalling in the depth of depravity. When an Armenian girl is to be married she is taken from her home and outraged by bands of Turks and Kurds, and any member of her family who lifts a hand in defence of her honour is shot down. On the Kurdish frontier the ravishers do not even wait for the approach of the girl's wedding, but they seize her when she has reached a certain age and carry her off to the mountains, where she is most shamefully treated. In a few days she is allowed to return to her home. This infamous practice is so common that it is declared that there is not a young Armenian woman living along the Kurdish frontier who has not been a victim of it. Even children of tender years are not exempt, and some have actually died in the most frightful agony. Any attempt of the Armenians to combat this custom or to punish the perpetrators of the outrages is met by severe measures.

LATE TELEGRAMS.

The following telegrams are from the Rangoon Gazette:—

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

LONDON, 9th February.

In the House of Commons last night during the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Jeffreys, member for Basingstoke, moved his amendment that in view of the gravest apprehension existing regarding the disastrous condition of agriculture, the depression in the textile and other industries and the increase in the number of unemployed, the House regrets ministers do not appreciate the gravity of the situation.

After a warm debate, in the course of which Mr. Shaw Lefevre advocated the spending of twenty millions on a Government scheme for light railways, the amendment was rejected by a majority of twelve amidst considerable excitement. The Parnellites voted with the minority.

It has been arranged that Mr. Chamberlain will move an opposition amendment deprecating the time of Parliament being occupied in discussing measures without any prospect of passing them and demanding an immediate submission of a resolution dealing with the House of Lords.

THE LIBERATOR FRAUDS.

LONDON, 12th February.

Messrs. Brook, Dibley, Wright, Theobald, and F. Moses Coldwells, the latter M. P. for North Lambeth, the five directors of the Balfour companies against whom summonses were recently issued, were brought up at the Guildhall to-day charged with fraud and conspiracy. The prosecution is being conducted by the Treasury.

THE OPIUM COMMISSION.

LONDON, 11th February.

The Opium Commission held daily sittings throughout last week and expects to complete the revision of their report by next Friday.

LONDON, 12th February.

The Secretary of State for India replying to a question said he believed the report of the Opium Commission would be presented to Parliament before Easter.

ASSAULT ON MARINES IN ALEXANDRIA.

CAIRO, 11th February.

A street mob at Alexandria set upon and severely beat three marines belonging to the cruiser Scout. The attack was entirely unprovoked. Nineteen of the assailants have been arrested.

CAIRO, 13th February.

The assailants of the three marines belonging to the cruiser Scout were brought up before the native court at Alexandria and severe sentences were passed on three of the ringleaders.

THE MALAGASY WAR.

LONDON, 13th February.

A despatch received from Reuter's correspondent at Mojanga states that the Hovas have killed a French trader near the town and captured two other French subjects.

OBITUARY.

LONDON, 21th February.

Colonel Gerard Money is dead.

INDIAN CHARGES.

LONDON, 13th February.

Last night Mr. Dadabhai Naoroji moved an amendment to the Address, in favour of Great Britain bearing a fair proportion of the cost of employment of Europeans in India and also of the military and political operations in cases where Imperial interests were concerned.

The Secretary of State for India admitted the serious difficulties that exist between the exchequers of India and England regarding the proportion of the expenditure to be borne. The Government was desirous of full and complete inquiry being held, but the form in which it should be undertaken had not yet been decided. Mr. Fowler thought perhaps the best method would be to appoint a small Royal Commission.

The amendment was then withdrawn.

THE DYNAMITERS.

LONDON, 13th February.

The Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of Dublin presented a petition at the Bar of the House of Commons in favour of releasing the Irish political prisoners.

LONDON, 14th February.

Mr. John Clancy, member for Dublin, last night moved an amendment that a general amnesty should be granted to the dynamiters now undergoing imprisonment.

The Government opposed the amendment, Mr. Asquith declaring that such crimes were too atrocious to be classed as political offences and that the time for considering the question of amnesty had not arrived.

The debate was adjourned.

LONDON, 15th February.

The House of Commons last night rejected by 300 votes against 111 the amendment proposed by Mr. Clancy for granting an amnesty to the dynamiters.

DEBATE ON UGANDA.

LONDON, 15th February.

In the House of Lords last night a debate took place on Uganda. Lord Rosebery stated that the Government was prepared almost at any moment to commence the railway, but reserved the right to determine the time of beginning the railway or any portion of the line.

Lord Kimberley said he had every reason to believe the people were satisfied with the rule of Colonel Colville. The protectorate would not be extended, though it was necessary to occupy Unyoro.

AIDE-DE CAMP TO THE QUEEN.

LONDON, 15th February.

Captain Inglis, formerly Japanese Naval Advisor, has been appointed Aide-de-Camp to the Queen.

THE ARMY AND CYPRUS.

LONDON, 15th February.

The whole of the Second Battalion of the Connaught Rangers have left Cyprus for Alexandria.

The withdrawal of the Second Battalion Connaught Rangers from Cyprus is due to the decision arrived at last year that the British garrison should be removed, with the exception of a small detachment to be left in charge of the stores. At the time there was a great outcry against this decision and there was something very like a political and financial panic in the island, but Government has stood firm and the troops have been withdrawn. It was stated at the time that the British intended to hand the island over to Turkey, but that is a most improbable supposition. Since its occupation by the British in 1878, the island has not made rapid progress, it is destitute of good harbours and, except as a convenient resting-place for troops in case of troubles in the Mediterranean, its possession is not of very great consequence.

The height of mean sea-level has been determined, from the tidal observations of 1887 and 1888, as 5.5 feet above zero of the tide-gauge at the Kowloon Tidal Observatory, and the Low-water Ordinary Spring-Tides, to which datum the heights in these Tables are referred, as 2.37 feet above zero.

The heights in the Tables marked with a minus sign (—) are below Low-water Ordinary Spring-Tides, and should be subtracted from the corresponding heights.

GRIMAULT'S SYRUP
OF HYPOPHOSPHITE OF LIME
FOR DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The original preparation prescribed by the leading medical authorities FOR CONSUMPTION WEAK LUNGS, BRONCHIAL IRRITATION, and OBSTINATE COUGHS, for the last 30 years with the greatest success. It continues to retain its reputation where other medicines have failed.

GRIMAULT'S SYRUP immediately arrests the COUGH, and NIGHTSWEATS, and the APPETITE improves rapidly—a fact soon demonstrated by an increase of weight and healthy appearance.

GRIMAULT'S SYRUP has a rose colour, and is sold in flat oval bottles.
